OCCUPIED JERUSALEM, Jan. 5 (R)—The Israeli authorities have banned two Arab mayors from the occupied West Bank from holding further demonstrations against plans to build a Jewish settlement near the Arab town of Hebron, military sources said here today. Hebron Mayor Fahed Qawasmeh and mayor of nearby Halhoul, Mr. Mohammad Hassan Milhem, led a demonstration earlier this week near the Jewish settlement of Kiryat Arba near Hebron where Israeli bulldozers were clearing some 150 acres (60 hectares) adjoining the settlement. Military sources said the two mayors were yesterday summoned to the military governor who told them demonstrations against the expansion were illegal. The mayors said the land was being cleared by Hebron residents while Israel claimed the plot belonged to the government. Mr. Qawasmeh said he would seek a high court injunction against the expansion work.

Shariat-Madari, Khomeini supporters clash in Tabriz

AN, Jan. 5 (R)—Violent clashes between followers of two leading ayatollahs took place in the northwestern city of Tabriz today and hospital sources said at least 150 people were treated for cuts, knife wounds and other injuries.

Revolutionary guard roadblocks were checking cars along the 150 kilometre road between the city and the port of Bandar Abbas.

LATE NEWS

TEHRAN, Jan. 5 (R)—Twenty-eight people were killed and more than 100 wounded in gun battles between rival Sunni and Shi'ite Muslim factions in the Gulf port of Bandar Lengeh today, the state radio said. The clashes broke out after prayers at the port's main mosque, the governor of the nearby port of Bandar Abbas, Mr. Abdullah Mohaghe, told Reuters by telephone. The radio said the police and gendarmes were now controlling Bandar Lengeh.

Hundreds of thousands of people demonstrated in Tehran and other major cities today in response to a statement by the radical pro-Khomeini Qom Clergy Society condemning the clashes in the holy city and criticising Ayatollah Shariat-Madari for failing to prevent them.

The society declared today a national holiday, a move swiftly adopted by Muslim students south from Tehran to Qom.

holding 49 American hostages at the U.S. embassy in Tehran, but only later formally approved by the ruling Revolutionary Council. The students said the demonstration must be directed at the United States which they blamed for the Qom violence but their statement also criticised Ayatollah Shariat-Madari without naming him.

In Tabriz, a spokesman for the local pro-Khomeini religious leader Ayatollah Assadolah Madani, said rioters had burnt cars and ripped portraits of Iran's revolutionary leader.

A spokesman at Ayatollah Shariat-Madari's home in Qom said the Azerbaijani leader had sent a message to Tabriz asking his followers not to set out for the holy city. Earlier today he issued a statement calling for calm in all the country's regions.

The tension between his followers and those of Ayatollah Khomeini arises from his opposition to articles of the new Islamic constitution which give the revolutionary leader supreme powers.

In another move to recapture the political limelight, which shifted to U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim during his three-day visit last week, the students yesterday demanded that the most senior U.S. diplomat in Iran be handed over to them by the foreign ministry.

They said it was up to the ministry to ensure that Charge d'Affaires Bruce Laingen was taken to the embassy for interrogation on alleged espionage documents discovered there.

Foreign Minister Sadeq Qotbzadeh, whose ministry is holding Mr. Laingen and two other American aides in protective custody, wrote to Ayatollah Khomeini today, asking him to decide on the student's demand.

Meanwhile the spiritual leader of Iran's Kurdish minority, Sheikh Ezzedin Hosseini, called today for demonstrations throughout Kurdistan tomorrow to demand the unconditional withdrawal of Islamic revolutionary guards from the region.

Sheikh Hosseini's call telephoned to news agencies by the Kurdish Society in Tehran, criticised the Tehran government's peace delegation to Kurdistan for rejecting a locally-agreed deal to remove the guards from the Kurdish city of Sanandaj.

Assad stresses Syria's adherence to principles

DAMASCUS, Jan. 5 (R)—President Hafez Al Assad has said that no power on earth could make Syria deviate from its principles.

He was addressing the seventh congress of the ruling Arab Baath Socialist Party last night at the end of two weeks of deliberations.

The meeting adopted several recommendations designed to check corruption and map out Syria's policy for the coming four years.

The recommendations are expected to be disclosed at a public plenary session tomorrow.

"Syria is strong, thanks to its army and people, and is always capable of resisting American imperialist designs and Israel and its agents," President Assad said in his speech.

"There is no power on earth which can deviate it from its principles or succeed in bargaining with it over its cause," he added.

During the congress, political leaders called for an all-out offensive against the Muslim Brotherhood, a fundamentalist group which has been blamed for a series of bombings and shootings which killed more than 200 people in Syria.

Sources close to the congress said President Assad was due to address the final plenary session tomorrow, and touch on domestic, Arab and international questions.

The congress meeting was expected to elect a 75-member central committee. This will gather every three months to evaluate progress made by the party. It will also elect a five-member watchdog committee to control the behaviour of party and government officials. In addition, a 21-member party leadership is to be elected for a four-year term.

Kuwait said mediating Oman-S. Yemen dispute

KUWAIT, Jan. 5 (R)—A South Yemeni envoy arrived today on a two-day visit to Kuwait at the start of a Gulf tour to deliver messages from South Yemen's president and foreign minister.

Informed sources said the envoy, Deputy Foreign Minister Abdul Aziz Abdul Rahman, might deal in his discussions here with Kuwait's diplomatic efforts to bring about reconciliation between the two Marxist states and their pro-western neighbour, the Sultanate of Oman.

Relations between the two countries have been strained because of an armed rebellion in Oman's Dhofar province which was crushed in 1976. Oman accused Aden of aiding the leftist insurgency in the province, which borders South Yemen.

Mr. Abdul Rahman met the Kuwaiti foreign ministry under-secretary, Mr. Rashid Al Rashid, immediately on arrival.

The letters from South Yemeni President Abdul Fattah Ismail and Foreign Minister Saleh Vohammad Saleh dealt with bilateral relations and the general Arab situation, the official Aden News Agency said.

Official sources said a meeting was planned in Kuwait last month between South Yemeni and Omani leaders to pave the way for normalising relations. But the meeting was called off after North Yemen offered to play host — an offer which would probably be discussed with the South Yemeni visitor, the sources said.

A spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Oman said in an interview in Aden today that Omani forces had stepped up patrols and returned to outposts which they had left because of a two-year lull in the fighting in Dhofar.

A series of skirmishes between the front's forces and the Omani troops took place in Dhofar last year, the spokesman told the Aden government newspaper "October 14." He said he expected more clashes.

Pakistani chiefs review aid offer from Washington

ISLAMABAD, Jan. 5 (R)—Pakistan's military ruler, Gen. Zia Ul Haq, held a lengthy meeting with his defence chiefs today to review developments following the Soviet-backed coup in neighbouring Afghanistan, informed sources said.

The meeting followed President Carter's announcement that the U.S. would supply military equipment, food and other assistance to Pakistan to help counteract the Russian threat to the region.

No details of the talks, which involved chiefs of the army, navy, air force, and military intelligence, were revealed. But western diplomats said the issue of American arms was clearly involved.

A foreign ministry spokesman said Pakistan was still waiting for specific proposals from the United States on the planned aid package.

The United States suspended economic and military aid to Pakistan last year because President Carter was concerned about the country's nuclear programme.

Mr. Carter authorised a speed-up of arms deliveries, however, after the Soviet-engineered coup last month in Afghanistan.

Pakistan remains deeply suspicious of Washington's reliability as an arms supplier as a result of previous cut-offs.

Defence Minister Ali Ahmad Talpur told journalists in Peshawar, the north west frontier provincial capital near the Khyber Pass which is the headquarters of the Pakistan Air Force, that the country was quite capable of defending itself against external aggression. Meanwhile Pakistan recalled its ambassadors in Moscow and Kabul for consultations.

Afghan army unit joins rebels

Moscow attempts to block U.N. Afghan crisis debate

UNITED NATIONS, Jan. 5 (Agencies)—The Soviet Union tried to block Security Council debate on the Afghanistan crisis today asserting that it would amount to interference in Afghan internal affairs.

Mr. Oleg Troyanovsky, the Soviet delegate, said the proposal by the United States, Britain and China and about 50 other countries which support them to involve the council in the question was inadmissible.

Alluding to the dispatch of Soviet troops to Afghanistan, Mr. Troyanovsky said events in that country were the Afghans' internal affair. Relations between Kabul and Moscow were based on their mutual treaty obligations.

The Afghan government appealed repeatedly to the Soviet Union for military aid to repulse outside armed intervention, he said, blaming "imperialist and hegemonistic" forces for attempts to turn back the April, 1978 Afghan revolution.

Moscow's dispatch of "a limited military combat contingent" to Afghanistan was exclusively to prevent this outside intervention, Mr. Troyanovsky said.

The Soviet action was fully in keeping with the right enshrined in the U.N. Charter of all states to individual or collective self-defence.

Security Council consideration of the matter was in keeping only with the interests of "imperialistic and hegemonistic circles which are carrying out armed intervention in the internal affairs of Afghanistan," the Soviet delegate said.

In Islamabad, insurgent spokesmen reported today that an Afghan army unit with several dozen tanks and armoured personnel carriers has switched sides where Soviet assault troops have been trying to break the rebel stronghold on the provinces.

Insurgents said several thousand Soviet troops met stiff resistance in a drive to control the important southern city of Kandahar. They said members of a

Tito discharged from hospital but needs treatment

BELGRADE, Jan. 5 (R)—Yugoslav President Tito left hospital today after undergoing an examination of blood circulation problems in his legs, an official announcement said.

The 87-year-old Yugoslav leader was admitted to a clinic in the northwestern city of Ljubljana two days ago.

A medical bulletin, signed by a group of eight medical professors, said today the president had left the clinic after the examination, but added the "established condition requires further intensive treatment". It gave no further details.

Official sources said yesterday the president had entered hospital for treatment of varicose veins in his legs. They added that he would also have a full medical checkup although his health appeared to be generally good.

Genscher to go to Washington on Jan. 20

BONN, Jan. 5 (R)—West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher will visit Washington on Jan. 20 for two days as part of a regular exchange of views between the two countries, the foreign ministry announced today.

It said the timing of the visit was agreed when Secretary of State Cyrus Vance was in West Germany last month on a mission to seek support for America's efforts to gain the release of U.S. embassy personnel held hostage in Iran.

The ministry said current world problems would be among the themes discussed during Mr. Genscher's visit. It gave no further details.

and joined tribal rebels fighting the government.

The latest desertion at Urgun-a garrison in Paktia province south of Kabul — was the biggest reported since the coup in Afghanistan which installed President Babrak Karmal last week.

As the Russian army has spread from Kabul to the countryside, scattered Afghan army units have left their posts and linked up with the tribal rebels, according to reports reaching Pakistan.

One unconfirmed report said an Afghan army brigade at Hada, a district near Jalalabad, the main garrison town between the Khyber Pass and Kabul, had also joined the rebels yesterday.

There have been reports of fighting near Jalalabad for the past two days following the arrival of Russian troops in the town earlier this week.

Heavy fighting between Afghan troops who had linked with the rebels took place today at Sorh road, about 15 kilometres west of Jalalabad and both the Russians and the rebel army unit suffered heavy casualties, according to the accounts.

The insurgent spokesman also said fighting had taken place near the town last night.

Other fighting was reported in Takhar and Badkhashan provinces along the Soviet border disident Afghan regular army division had joined rebels to fight the Soviet forces and yesterday prevented efforts by the Russians to fly in supplies.

"The Russians are in the city but do not control it," a spokesman for the National Islamic Front said. Afghanistan's new vice-president today rejected allegations that the Soviet Union had interfered in his country's internal affairs and charged that the United States, China, Saudi Arabia and Egypt had all been involved in forming "anti-Afghan bandit gangs."

In a despatch from Kabul, Tass News Agency quoted vice-President Asadolla Sarvari as saying suggestions of Soviet interference in the country's internal affairs "are nothing but ill-intentioned lies."

Western correspondents were allowed into Afghanistan today for the first time since the coup but found few signs of the big Soviet armada of troops and armour reported at Kabul airport only days ago. Only two large Antonov transports and a dozen helicopters were to be seen at the airport, they said.

The airport, decorated with such slogans as "Long live international proletarianism," was calm. Only a few soldiers stood guard at an airport gate.

Regional Briefs

TEHRAN, Jan. 5 (R)—An organisation calling itself "Falcons of the Islamic Revolution" claimed responsibility for the murder of a man, including two women, whose bodies were found in Tehran today, police said. A police spokesman told Reuters the bodies of the two women were pinned to the club-beaten bodies of the two men who had been executed for being prostitutes. The spokesman said the group also claimed responsibility in a call to newspapers for the murder of a father and son, alleged to be smugglers, whose bodies were found elsewhere in north Tehran. The Falcons organisation was previously unknown. Its note said the women had been tried and sentenced to death.

ABJAHAD, Jan. 5 (R)—Djibouti's President Hassan Gouled left today for home after a four-day visit during which he concluded an agreement for economic and technical cooperation with Iraq. The Iraqi News Agency said the agreement also provided for training cooperation in the fields of culture, information and tourism. Under the accord, Iraq will be carrying out a number of development projects in Djibouti, it added. President Gouled was accompanied by several government ministers on his trip — the last since August 1977 when he visited the country two months after Djibouti's independence. His latest visit to Iraq followed a similar trip to Saudi Arabia last week.

KUWAIT, Jan. 5 (R)—Kuwait today confirmed that it had reduced the price of its liquefied export gas by about 14 per cent effective Jan. 1. An oil ministry spokesman said the average price would be $301.2 per tonne after the latest increase. The price of butane had been increased from $292 to $332 a tonne and propane from $241 to $272 a tonne, the spokesman said. It was a sixth increase since last August when Kuwait started raising prices on a monthly basis. Kuwait's average gas prices have risen by 148 per cent since January last year.

ROME, Jan. 5 (R)—The Italian News Agency (ANSA) reported at Libyan Oil Minister Ezzeddin Mabrouk was dismissed from post today by the ruling General People's Congress. The congress named Mr. Abdul Salam Zagar to replace him, the agency said in a dispatch from Tripoli. Trade Minister Abu Bakr Effi was also reported to have been relieved of his post and placed by Mr. Buzet Darda. Mr. Mabrouk, a former judge, had been oil minister since 1970. The General People's Congress decided to institute a secretariat (ministry) for Islamic affairs, headed by former Education Minister Mohammad Ahmad arif. The rector of Benghazi University, Mr. Abdul Hafid Ahmad Zilini, was appointed education minister.

TEHRAN, Jan. 5 (R)—Two European oilmen who went missing days ago in Kuwait have been located in an Iraqi jail, the Gulf News reported today. The two men, who were not identified, were traced to the jail yesterday. The newspaper did not say whether they were still being held by the Iraqi authorities. The newspaper quoted a friend as saying that the men, employees of an unnamed oil company, had set off to work on a rig but lost their way in the desert and crossed into Iraq by mistake. It was believed they were lost in the desert for three days before being picked up by an Iraqi security patrol, the newspaper said.

ROME, Jan. 5 (R)—The Libyan Jamahiriyah today broke off relations with Al Fateh, the biggest group within the Palestine Liberation Organisation, the Italian News Agency (ANSA) reported. In a dispatch from Tripoli, ANSA said the decision was taken by the Libyan General People's Congress which is currently sitting in the Libyan capital. Al Fateh is headed by Mr. Yasser Arafat, who also leads the PLO itself. ANSA quoted sources in Tripoli as saying Libya would continue to support the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP), another member of the PLO, and other groups which believed in armed struggle. The PLO representative in Tripoli left Libya last month after his government criticised Libyan leader Muammar Qadhafi for trying to influence its policies.

King sends message to Qadhafi

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — His Majesty King Hussein has sent a message to the Libyan leader, Col. Muammer Al Qadhafi, dealing with current Arab affairs and Jordanian-Libyan relations. The message was carried by Minister of State Hassan Ibrahim who left for Tripoli today.

Cable to Waldheim appeals for halt to JDEC takeover

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — The executive bureau of the Islamic Congress in Amman today sent cables to U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim and the Security Council president appealing to them to halt Israel's seizure of the Jerusalem District Electricity Company.

Israel's attempt to take over the Arab Company against its will and the will of the village councils in the Jerusalem area represents a new step in Israel's infringement of Arab rights in the Jerusalem area, and constitutes a drastic change of property ownership and sovereignty in the occupied areas in violation of U.N. resolutions, the cables said.

Arab media key in JDEC case

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JT) — The head of the Jerusalem District Electricity Company's workers union, Mr. Abed Abu Diab, leaves here Sunday for Jerusalem after representing the company in discussions with Jordanian officials on the board of directors and employees decision to fight the proposed takeover of the company by Israel in one year's time.

He also discussed with them today steps to be followed in appealing against the decision to the United Nations and the International Court of Justice in the Hague.

In a statement to the Jordan Times, Mr. Abu Diab said "the situation now depends on how the Arab media take up this issue and how they play it up so as to make Arab and Islamic countries in particular and non-aligned and friendly countries in general aware of the full dimensions of the Israeli decision. This would enable us to stand up to the takeover bid and to render it void."

"The city of Jerusalem and its institutions are Arab in character and affiliation and will remain so even while Israel occupies the city. The occupation will end one day," he added.

The Israeli Knesset (parliament) will discuss the decision during its session tomorrow. It is expected that the decision will be met with strong opposition from some members of the Knesset, he said.

Family survey to set price index

By Norah Barger
Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN, Jan. 5 — The new year marked the start of a survey which will establish Jordan's first reliable base for a consumer price index, and help pinpoint particular areas of inflation in the country.

The study, called the family expenditure survey, consists of intensive interviews conducted with 2,100 households all over Jordan in order to ascertain their consumption patterns, for both goods and services.

The households, which are both urban and rural, are located in all five governorates and were scientifically selected as representative of the kingdom's population. Mr. Mashhour Shennag, chief of the prices and cost of living section of the Department of Statistics, told the Jordan Times today.

The survey will take a year to complete, he said. Each family will be interviewed every three months, for a total of four times during the year. The entire year is needed in order to evaluate seasonal changes in consumption patterns. "You can't buy watermelon in January," Mr. Shennag explained.

The survey asks questions in six areas. Characteristics of the families involved — number of members, their age and sex, etc. — are recorded in the first part, along with information on the family's housing in the second part.

The second part involves daily expenditures. It asks specific questions on the quantity, value and price unit of each item of food consumed, as well as outlays made for medicine, transport, personal care and other daily costs, over a seven-day period.

The third part includes the value of commodities, such as

His Majesty King Hussein meets with local Islamic leaders Saturday

King meets local Islamic leaders

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — His Majesty King Hussein met at the Royal Court this afternoon with heads and members of Islamic organisations in Jordan.

King Hussein noted that Jordan played a role in the past and is playing one today whose value, he said, springs from the gathering of Jordanian people around the faith in which they believe.

His Majesty said, "Our religion is that of faith, good conduct, knowledge, love and equality; it unites rather than separates; it unites for love rather than for hatred; it is the religion of faith and constructive work. The call for constructive work rather than laziness and dependency is the core of our belief."

Islam is the religion of simplicity, clarity and high values, he added.

The King referred to the duty of protecting progress in this exposed part of the world, which carries the burden of confronting the challenges and dangers on behalf of the Arabs and Muslims. "We have Jerusalem near us and the holy places in Mecca, Medina and in all the Arab and Islamic countries around us."

King Hussein called for the adoption of wisdom and goodness in preaching about religion, because with positive preaching the younger generation is given an opportunity to equip itself with the knowledge that can help it maintain its religion and faith and preserve the progress of its country.

The Prime Minister, Sharif Abdul Hamid Sharaif, spoke after the King, noting that His Majesty, since assuming the leadership of Jordan, has been a moderate in calling and working for the protection of enlightened Islamic thought. He has led Jordan in a wise, forgiving, and balanced way which embodies the true Islamic spirit.

The meeting was attended by the Chief of the Royal Court, Mr. Ahmad Lawzi, the Court Minister, Mr. Amer Khammash, the Chief Justice, Sheikh Ibrahim Al Qattan, and the Minister of Awqaf and Islamic Affairs, Dr. Kamel Al Sharif.

Civil defence men hailed by building residents after fire

By Serene R. Farraj
Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN, Jan. 5 — Fire broke out in a four-storey residential building in a newly developed area of Western Shennag last night, causing considerable damage to the building, but no casualties.

The fire started as the result of an electric short circuit in the boiler room and then rapidly spread to the upper-stories. Electric metres began to burst and electric wires exploded into flames throughout the building. Fire engines rushed to the scene and began to fight the blaze, but they were only able to extinguish the fire completely after an hour, when electricians arrived to cut off electric power to the building. The residents were rescued from balconies by firemen using fire engine ladders.

The residents, who number around 40, were very pleased when they saw the civil defence men coming to visit them the next day. One of the residents told the Jordan Times: "We are really grateful to the civil defence men. They risked their lives for our sake. They arrived in less than 10 minutes, while, on the other hand, no one arrived from the electricity company for at least one hour."

He added that of course the electricity men have their excuses, but "it was a really frightening experience, the electricity system burned down completely, and no one could do anything about it other than experts from the electricity company. Finally they arrived, and they managed to disconnect electricity from the area."

Men from the electricity company were at work today, trying to repair the damage.

When the fire broke out, all the men in the building rushed down to the boiler room. "I was really frightened," one woman said. "My husband rushed down to see what was happening, and all men in the building followed him. As a result women and children were stuck in the building alone."

We immediately rushed to the balconies, calling for someone to help, but the men couldn't come up again due to the heavy smoke that filled the building."

She went on to say: "We were then rescued by ladders that reached as high as the second storey only, so people living on higher floors had to rush down to the second floor in spite of the heavy smoke that engulfed us from head to toe."

Another man said: "My children were crying all the time; they were calling me from the balcony. I was very tense. It took me five minutes to tell the civil defence men that my children were up there."

One woman echoed everyone's sentiments when she said: "I was very relieved when the civil defence men arrived at my house," she said. "I didn't know what to do when my husband was stuck outside the building."

Bids for white cement factory due by March 1

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — The Syrian-Jordanian Company for Industry will receive by March 1 bids from seven international companies for the construction of a white cement factory, the company's Director General, Mr. Khaled Najdawi, said here today.

He said the estimated JD 12 million company will be set up in the Qasr Al Hallabat area, some 60 kilometres northeast of Amman, and is expected to have an initial annual production capacity of 100,000 tonnes.

The factory, which is expected to start production by 1982, should be able to supply Jordan and Syria with their white cement requirements.

The company, he said, will at the end of this month receive feasibility studies conducted by seven international car companies for the construction of a car assembly plant to manufacture small cars and pickups.

The plant, expected to cost between JD 10 million and JD 15 million, will have an initial annual production capacity of 25,000 vehicles, Mr. Najdawi said.

NCC to debate regulations setting a precedent here

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JT) — The cabinet is soon expected to submit for the first time in Jordan a set of new regulations to the National Consultative Council (NCC) for discussion.

An informed source told the Jordan Times that the recently formed cabinet has decided to re-evaluate new civil service regulations, which had already been approved by the former cabinet but not put into effect by royal decree.

He added that the cabinet will make some amendments in the regulations that will increase efficiency and performance of the government.

The regulations will later be referred to the NCC for discussion, the source said. This will be the first time that regulations have been submitted for approval to the council, which heretofore has only discussed laws.

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — Director General of the Arab Potash Company (APC), Mr. Ali Khasawneh, will leave for Dublin tomorrow to take part in a meeting scheduled for Jan. 10, called to consider bids submitted by international firms to build a potash processing plant at the company's site near the southern tip of the Dead Sea.

Taking part in the meeting will also be representatives of the Kuwait Fund for Arab Economic Development, the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), the World Bank and APC consultants.

Originally some 158 firms submitted bids to build the potash plant but these were shortlisted to four, from Britain, Austria, France and West Germany, Khasawneh said.

He said the participants will discuss progress in the work of the potash company and various stages already completed. Khasawneh will be accompanied by a number of senior APC officials.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

AL RAI: The current American attitude of preparation for a conflict is "to emphasize the U.S. image," just as the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan is aimed at "strengthening the Soviet image."

What has happened and is currently happening is a chapter in the continuous conflict between the superpowers for influence and domination. Therefore, it is not the first chapter nor the last, despite the diversity of fronts and the distances between them, ranging from the Horn of Africa to Afghanistan.

What most threatens our region is to let any force use our area to exercise and show its muscles. The immediate enthusiasm shown by Israel and the Egyptian regime to involve the area in the crisis is an outcome of the Camp David process, which aims at putting the region at the disposal of the United States, whenever it is called for.

The Arab countries are called upon to be extremely vigilant towards the new chapter in the conflict between the two superpowers and to exercise due caution with respect to the "trap" engineered by the Camp David parties — who promptly offered military facilities, including their bases, to the U.S. — so that no Arab party will fall in the trap, even indirectly.

AL DUSTOUR: The Afghan crisis and its consequences have revealed indisputably that the countries of the region, which is still trying to create a balance in its relations with Moscow and Washington, seem completely unable to prevent Soviet intervention, just as they are totally unable to prevent the imminent American intervention.

From this perspective, the cold war which has broken out between the two superpowers must lead in one way or another to classify the countries in the region into those who approve of the Soviet intervention and those who approve of the countering American action.

Consequently, the countries of the region — both in the Middle East and in western Asia — will in one way or another be candidates for becoming the scene of a confrontation between East and West.

We do not know who is responsible for preventing this harmful polarisation, whose signs have become clear, by denouncing or supporting the Soviet and American practices. Is it the duty of the Arab League, the Islamic conference or the non-aligned countries?

WHAT'S GOING ON

Exhibition

The Goethe Institute, in cooperation with the Dept. of Culture and Arts, presents an exhibition of contemporary German graphic art from the art centres of Stuttgart, Karlsruhe and Munich. The exhibition is on display during regular hours until Saturday, January 12.

AMMAN, Jan. 5 (JNA) — Some 20 department heads in the Public Security Directorate began a two-week course in public relations today. The objective of the course is to introduce a new and more up to date idea of dealing with the public and the media to police officials, which should lead to happier relations with the people they serve. In the picture above, Assistant Director General of Public Security for Traffic, Brig. Muhammad Ali Al Amin, launches the course at the Institute of Public Administration in Amman.

First heavy snow hits high areas in Jordan

By a Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN, Jan. 5 — "Even in this area this would be considered a blizzard," said one sighted foreign resident after driving his car at the base of the hill leading to his house in the city area. The occasion was the first heavy snowfall of the season.

Usually, the snow has been accompanied by flashes of light and thunderclaps.

A number of roads have been closed due to the weather. The Security Directorate closed the Jerash-Irbid road as

"difficult to use" and added that the roads between Jerash and Ajloun, Amman and Sweich, Sweich and Salt, and the Ras Al Naqurah Road were closed.

This evening, snowploughs went to work to clear the University Road, and other streets in south Amman, although work was proceeding slowly as snow continued to fall. Snowploughs will also be brought into other areas after work is completed in this area.

The Meteorological Department told the Jordan Times that the snowfall was due to a depression centred over the middle of Turkey that is associated with a very cold air mass. It is also causing bad weather in Syria, Turkey and Cyprus.

The temperature in Amman reached nine degrees today, but hovered around zero when the snow started this evening. Winds averaged 25 knots, gusting to 50 which, according to the department, is unusual, but not unknown in very cold weather.

Snow was confined to areas over 4,000 feet (1,300 metres) in altitude, so the Jordan Valley, for instance, had none.

The low-pressure zone causing the disturbances is moving very slowly to the east and more snow is expected in the coming 24 hours. The Meteorological Department did not rule out the possibility of snow on Monday.

Even while snow was forming spectacular snowdrifts throughout the city, one sceptical resident commented, "The problem with snow in Jordan is that you make a few snowballs and it's gone."

People ...in the news

AMMAN'S FIRST respectable snow of the season prevented many automobiles from climbing slick hills, but didn't keep over 100 friends of Dr. Ghaleb Barakat away from the Jordan Intercontinental Hotel, where a reception was held Saturday evening in his honour.

The affair for the outgoing minister of tourism and antiquities was put on by his successor, Dr. Muwaffaq Al Fawwaz, and attended by guests from all sectors of the tourism industry, the government, and the private sector.

Dr. Barakat has worked in the government's tourism sector for an impressive 27 years, and has been minister of tourism for seven years and 10 months — a new record for his ministry. The Jordan Times joins in congratulating him on a long and successful career.

Mr. Gerard Zimmerman has some good news for his friends. Although he has already been given a going away party, he will not be leaving for Bonn after all.

Instead he and his Jordanian wife, Marousha, will be moving to Nairobi, Kenya in about four months.

The Frenchman came to Jordan 17 years ago as a member of his embassy's staff here. Several years ago he left the French government to enter private busness, but now he's re-entering his country's service.

When Mr. Zimmerman visited Paris recently, it was to make final arrangements before going to Bonn. However, the French government decided to send Mr. Zimmerman to Nairobi instead. But he's not disappointed: "I'm not in a hurry to go back to Europe," he said.

Christ is celebrated by the Eastern Orthodox churches. They follow the Julian calendar in which the holiday occurs 13 days after it does on the Western, Gregorian calendar.

Christmas is celebrated by all Christians in Jordan on Dec. 25 by an agreement made three years ago between the eastern and western rite churches here.

Only the Greek Orthodox church continues to offer a service on Jan. 7 for parishioners who would rather not comply with the agreement.

In the very early churches in the east and in some in the west, Christmas was actually celebrated on Jan. 6, the feast of the Epiphany (manifestation). After the 6th century, the church in Rome moved the date of the birth of Christ to Dec. 25 and Jan. 6 became the culminating day of the Christmas season — the twelfth day of Christmas. People celebrated the manifestation of Jesus, to the magi — the three wise men on this day.

Today, Epiphany celebrates not only the magi's adoration of Jesus but also the manifestation of Jesus as someone more than human as recorded in two Biblical incidents. One of these is his first miracle performed at the wedding feast of Cana where he changed water into wine. The other is the baptism of Christ in the Jordan River by St. John the Baptist.

The latter meaning of the feast day is the one favoured by Jordanians. In honour of the baptism they prepare a special sweet called zalabia. A sort of pancake made from wheat, yeast, sugar and water, zalabia is fried in olive oil and then soaked in a sweet syrup before being served.

Good news, every day, from Jordan

Italy, Brazil to decide on Gold Cup entry

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay, Jan. 5 (R)—Italy and Brazil were apparently still undecided today on whether they would take part in the Gold Cup for world soccer champions due to be staged in Uruguay late this year to mark the 50th anniversary of the first World Cup. At a meeting of the six-nation organising committee here Thursday night Italy objected to a decision adopted by the other five which would have the tournament divided into two groups with the winner of the one playing the runnerup of the other in the finals. Italian delegate Artemio Franchi said this would allow a non-winner of a group to win the cup and would also extend the tournament for three or four days more than was absolutely necessary. The two-group system was approved by Argentina, Brazil, The Netherlands, Uruguay and West Germany. The Italian objection forced the organisers to postpone the draw for the cup until after receiving a definite reply from Italy, expected towards the end of January, a spokesman for the organisers said. International Football Association president Joao Havelange of Brazil said here earlier this week that Brazil would definitely take part in the tournament. But newly-elected president of the Brazilian Football Confederation, Guilielmo Coutinho, told the local daily La Manana by telephone that a definite decision would only be taken after he assumes office later this month. The Netherlands, twice World Cup runners up but never winners, were invited to take part in the Gold Cup after England, 1966 champions, declined an invitation. Uruguay, who staged and won the first World Cup in 1930, won it again in 1950. Brazil won it three times and West Germany and Italy twice each. Argentina and England won it once each.

Rugby union votes for S. African tour

LONDON, Jan. 5 (R)—The English Rugby Union yesterday voted in favour of sending a British Lions team to South Africa later this year. Their decision, taken at a meeting here, makes it almost certain that the tour will in fact take place. The three other British Isles unions—Scotland, Wales and Ireland—are also expected to confirm their backing for the tour when the committee of the four home unions meets to make a final decision here on Sunday.

If the tour does go ahead it is certain to have wide ranging repercussions with the 1980 summer Olympic Games in Moscow possibly affected. African nations decided in Yaounde last month to call for Britain's expulsion from the Moscow Games if the British Lions went to South Africa.

A statement issued by Bob Weighill, secretary of the English Rugby Union (RFU) after yesterday's meeting said: "The RFU committee at a meeting in London yesterday decided to support the British Isles Rugby Union tour to South Africa in 1980. This decision was taken after full debate and careful consideration of all implications including the reading of a letter from Mr. Hector Monro (the British sports minister) who once again stated the government's view. The decision will now be conveyed to the committee of the home unions."

Weighill refused to say whether the decision to back the tour was unanimous. The British government's view referred to in the statement is that the tour should not take place.

West Indies - W. Australia cricket test

PERTH, Australia, Jan. 5 (AP)—Western Australian fast bowler Terry Alderman moved a step closer to test selection when he helped rout the West Indies for 169 on the opening day of the four-day game here today. The 23-year-old Alderman maintained a lively pace in heat wave conditions and swung the ball expertly to finish with five for 47 off 18 overs. His victims were Lawrence Rowe (3), Clive Lloyd (9), David Murray (15), Joel Garner (4) and Derek Parry (32). Alderman received excellent support from medium-pace swing bowler Mick Malone, who took four for 48 off 14.2 overs. There was little excuse for the paltry display by the West Indian batsmen on a perfect pitch and in ideal conditions. The side was dismissed seven minutes before the scheduled tea break off only 55.2 overs. Generally it was a lack of application and slips of batting that caused the collapse. Hayne, Parry and Marshall were the only batsmen to show any real determination on a pitch that provided little assistance for the bowlers. The sides most experienced batsmen—Rowe, Lloyd and Alvin Kallichar—were all out when attempting to hook. Rowe and Lloyd had their feet out of position and completely mistimed their shots. Kallichar was out for 13 when he hooked a ball from Con Michale in the middle of the bat, but straight to Tony Mann at square leg. The brightest spot came when King was at the wicket. He decided it was too hot to run singles, two's or three's. So he simply launched a fierce attack on the bowlers to hammer seven fours in his score of 28 off 14 deliveries before he was bowled by Malone.

Australia control test with England

SYDNEY, Jan. 5 (R)—England's batsmen again wasted the hard work put in by their bowlers here today to allow Australia to regain control of the second cricket test. At the end of the second day the match was shaping into a repeat of the seesaw battle in the first test, won by Australia three weeks ago when England's batting also let them down. The game resumes tomorrow with England 31 for three in their second innings, giving them a 16-run lead. England's bowlers, from hard working pacer Botham to occasional medium pacer Graham Gooch, have a reason to be disappointed by their side's predicament. England were all out for 123 this morning their bowlers back well, dismissing Australia for 145 shortly after tea.

Mrs. Gandhi expected to finish ahead of rivals in India's general elections

NEW DELHI, Jan. 5 (R)—India's general elections end tomorrow with no guarantee that a clear winner will emerge from the voting.

Former premier Indira Gandhi, trying to regain power after 33 months in opposition, is widely expected to finish ahead of her rivals.

But predictions are that neither her Congress (I) Party nor the opposition Janata Party led by Jagjivan Ram will win an absolute majority in the 544-seat lower house (Lok Sabha) of parliament.

What happens next would depend on how much support the two sides can muster from smaller parties.

More than 200 million people out of a total electorate of 361 million are eligible to vote tomorrow in the two-part election.

First results, from constituencies which went to the polls on Thursday, are expected in the evening. The election commission said results for 100 seats should be known by midnight but the final result may not be known until Tuesday.

The 298 constituencies voting tomorrow include Medak in southern Andhra Pradesh state, where Mrs. Gandhi is a candidate. She also sought election in Rae Bareilly in northern Uttar Pradesh state, where she was defeated by 55,000 votes in the 1977 general election.

Mrs. Gandhi's supporters said she wanted to be re-elected to parliament from both northern and southern India, but her opponents said she was contesting two seats because she feared another defeat in Rae Bareilly.

Should Mrs. Gandhi win both seats she would have to vacate one of them.

Also standing tomorrow are Mrs. Gandhi's son Sanjay in Amethi, Uttar Pradesh, and Mr. Ram, seeking re-election from Sasaram in neighbouring Bihar state.

A police force of about 120,000 will be deployed in Bihar tomorrow to prevent caste violence which killed 54 people in local elections in June, 1978.

Three Harijans (untouchables) were killed and more than 30 injured in clashes with upper caste Hindus in Uttar Pradesh on Thursday.

Reports from several areas, including Caretaker Premier Charan Singh's Bagpat constituency, said Harijans were prevented from voting by higher caste Hindus.

The election commission has decided to postpone the vote counting in Bagpat and two other Uttar Pradesh constituencies pending detailed investigations.

Brown begins week in China

PEKING, Jan. 5 (R)—United States Secretary of Defence Harold Brown arrived in Peking today at the start of a week-long visit to China.

The defence secretary's trip to China, which was arranged months ago, has been lent added significance by the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan.

Officials in Washington said before Mr. Brown's departure that he would probably explore with Chinese officials ways in which the two countries could increase military supplies to Pakistan.

Mr. Brown, who arrived aboard a U.S. Air Force plane, was met by Vice-Premier Geng Biao, who is general secretary of the Communist Party military commission, and Deputy Chief of Staff Wu Xiuquan.

The vice-premier told Mr. Brown he looked forward to holding talks with him.

The defence secretary will spend five days in Peking followed by three in the southern industrial and military centres of Wuhan and Shanghai.

He is scheduled to begin talks on Monday with Vice-Premier Geng and Foreign Minister Huang Hua.

Patriotic Front guerrillas continue pouring in from Rhodesian bush

SALISBURY, Jan. 5 (R)—Britain's deadline for guerrillas to report at ceasefire assembly points appeared to have slipped today as Patriotic Front forces still poured in from the Rhodesian bush.

By noon, 12 hours after the midnight deadline for the bush fighters to check in at rendezvous and assembly points, British officials put the number of guerrillas registering with the 1,300-man Commonwealth ceasefire monitoring force at "up to 16,000."

This was 4,000 more than were reported shortly after the midnight deadline and more than twice the number who had checked in at the 39 points by this time yesterday.

At one rendezvous point 100 kilometres north of here, near the trading station of Mrewa, some 600 guerrillas had checked in over the past 18 hours, presenting the ten-man British ceasefire force with a major problem.

From 23 rendezvous points the guerrillas are to be driven by bus to the 16 assembly points in which they are to be monitored by the Commonwealth force until next month's pre-election elections.

But the last-minute rush of guerrillas has overstretched the transport resources of the force, which was to have vacated all rendezvous points at dawn today.

Near Mrewa, the 600 guerrillas rested from the hot sun in an abandoned bullet-scarred mission school.

Three buses carrying a total of 210 guerrillas had earlier left the rendezvous point for the 160-kilometre drive north to an assembly point at Dendera mission.

This left only two buses for the remaining 600 and it seemed much more time would be needed before the guerrillas could be moved to their assembly point.

The British governor Lord Soames has said that guerrillas who failed to report by midnight last night would be regarded as "unlawful."

But British sources indicated no action would be taken against them if they behaved peaceably and made their way to the ceasefire points.

Under the terms of the eight-day ceasefire, the Patriotic Front guerrillas and Salisbury's forces have largely disengaged and both sides are to be monitored by the mainly British Commonwealth troops.

'Thousands' flee from fighting in Kampuchean refugee camp

BANGKOK, Jan. 5 (R)—Fighting erupted in a sprawling border-refugee encampment housing more than 200,000 Kampucheans yesterday, relief agency sources said.

One person died and about 80 were injured in the battle at the camp opposite Thailand's Nong Samet village, about 280 kilometres east of Bangkok, they said. Seven to eight thousand refugees fled into Thailand for safety.

The sources, quoting reports from the area, said it was not yet clear who was involved in the clash.

They said the most likely explanation was that Khmer Rouge guerrillas loyal to the ousted Kampuchean government tried to enter the camp, which is controlled by non-communist Khmer Serei (Free Khmer) guerrillas.

But they also said it was possible the fighting was between a faction of Khmer Serei controlling the Nong Samet encampment and a rival group in charge of another vast camp a few kilometres to the south.

Thai military officials said they were still checking the reports and could not confirm them.

France denies uranium sold or hijacked to Pakistan, Libya

PARIS, Jan. 5 (R)—France has denied that uranium mined by French companies in Niger was sold or hijacked to Pakistan and the Libyan Jamahiriya.

"Not a single uranium 'yellow cake' nugget has found its way to Pakistan or Libya," French Atomic Energy Commission President Michel Pequeur said yesterday. "There has been no theft nor any misappropriation of uranium from Niger."

The Atomic Energy Commission oversees uranium operations in Niger and holds 27 and 34 per cent shares in two mining groups there through its subsidiary, the French company Cogema (Compagnie Generale des Matieres Nucleaires).

Supplies of uranium to shareholders—which include Italy, West Germany and Italy as well as France, Niger and private French companies—are guaranteed, but sales to third parties were subject to international control, commission officials added.

Mr. Pequeur said Cogema had not delivered any uranium supplies to Tripoli or Islamabad, but Niger had legitimately sold supplies of the nuclear concentrate to both countries.

Mr. Pequeur recalled a statement by Niger President Seyni Kountche that all Niger's uranium sales had been carried out with the full knowledge and approval of the Vienna-based International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA).

"In accordance with the non-proliferation treaty and under IAEA conditions, the Niger authorities have sold uranium to various countries including Libya, which has signed the non-proliferation treaty, and to Pakistan which has signed an agreement with Niger and the Vienna agency," Mr. Pequeur said.

"All such sales have been duly notified by Niger to the Vienna agency," he said.

Last November, a British newspaper reported that a truck carrying 20 tons of uranium concentrate from a Niger mine was hijacked on the way to the port of Cotonou and its load had gone to Libya and then to Pakistan.

France has cancelled plans to build a nuclear fuel reprocessing plant for Pakistan in a move to prevent proliferation of atomic weapons. The Pakistan Government has repeatedly denied it plans to produce nuclear weapons but diplomats here believe it to be building an uranium enrichment plant near Islamabad in an effort to develop a nuclear bomb.

Over quarter of Somalia's population made up of fugitives from Ethiopia

MOGADISHU, Jan. 5 (R)—Impoverished Somalia in the Horn of Africa has the worst refugee problem in the world. Over a quarter of its population is made up of ragged and hungry fugitives from neighbouring Ethiopia.

And every day a thousand more homeless men, women and children swell the tide, according to official estimates.

Government and United Nations officials estimate the refugees total 1.2 million.

The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) representative in Mogadishu, Mr. Steffen Bodemar, said: "This is the largest number of refugees in any one country in the world. It is impossible for Somalia to absorb this number without very substantial international assistance."

The refugees are from the ethnically Somali regions of eastern Ethiopia, scene of a long drawn-out guerrilla war against the Addis Ababa government.

The numbers of homeless reaching Somalia have swelled dramatically in the past eight months, and Somali officials and guerrilla leaders say the Ethiopians, with Cuban and Russian backing, are trying to drive all ethnic Somalis from the Ogaden, Bale and Sidamo regions.

The ethnic Somalis are regarded as friendly to the guerrilla. Western diplomats here say there have been increased air and ground attacks by Ethiopian government forces in the eastern region.

Crimes occurring 'continuously' in Canton, says Chinese report

PEKING, Jan. 5 (R)—Crime is rife in the southern Chinese city of Canton and surrounding areas, according to a law and order conference report quoted by the provincial radio.

The conference, held last month, said illegal emigration to Hong Kong was a serious problem and urged tougher measures to stop criminal attacks on foreigners, according to the radio.

"Since August, murders, holdups, rapes and gang fights have occurred continuously in Canton and some medium and small towns," the radio said.

"We must concentrate on striking at robbers, murderers, rapists, criminals who injure foreigners, overseas Chinese and Hong Kong and Macao compatriots, ring leaders in organised illegal emigration and other criminals who seriously sabotage law and order in society."

The radio indicated that Canton, like a number of other Chinese cities including Peking, had been forced to call in the army to help to maintain social order.

"People's Liberation Army units must carry forward their glorious tradition, work closely with the local authorities and act as a strong back-up force in maintaining law and order," it said.

The radio quoted Mr. Yang,

Ethiopia, with the aid of some 7,000 Cubans and sophisticated Soviet weapons, defeated Somalia in the Ogaden war of 1977 and early 1978. Mutual hostility and suspicion still abounds.

Almost half a million refugees are living in 21 camps in Somalia and an estimated 700,000 are outside the camps.

So far the United States has been the major food donor. Mr. Bodemar warned: "For 1980 we only have about one third of the food requirement. On top of this there is a situation which is growing all the time."

Shankun, Canton's mayor, as saying battles between different clans, as well as gambling and superstition were problems in the countryside.

"While getting a good grasp of tidying up law and order in the towns, it is also necessary to solve problems in the rural areas such as feudal superstitions, gambling, indiscriminate destruction of forests and feudal armed fights between clans," he said.

China has been experiencing a crime wave over the past year, largely as a result of the high unemployment rate among young people in the cities. It has staged a number of well-publicised executions of criminals in an attempt to control the situation.

A court in the southern Chinese city of Kunming recently sentenced four men to immediate death in front of an audience of 5,000 people, according to the provincial radio.

The broadcast said the four, along with 19 others led before the rally, were variously described as "murderers, looters, rapists, smugglers, drug traffickers and criminals guilty of the most heinous crimes in stealing state property, seriously disrupting public order and endangering the lives and property of the people."

World News Briefs

PRETORIA, Jan. 5 (R)—Black guerrillas armed with hand grenades and assault rifles attacked a police station in northern Transvaal last night, police said today. They said two black constables were killed on the verandah of the station in Sockmekaar, north of Pretoria, when three men who had walked by suddenly opened fire. The men threw three hand grenades. Two exploded but nobody was injured in the police station said. It was the fourth attack on South African police in less than nine months. In May last year a Soweto police station killing a black constable and wounding five other people. That was followed in November an attack on another Soweto station in which two policemen were killed and two people wounded. Later that month, a grenade was thrown at a black constable's house in eastern Transvaal seriously injuring his five children.

GENEVA, Jan. 5 (R)—The World Health Organisation (WHO) listed 23 countries which still require smallpox vaccination certificates for travellers although the disease has officially been eliminated. An expert panel set up by the WHO to verify the disappearance of smallpox has recommended that vaccination cards should be placed out and stocks of vaccine concentrated in handful of top-level Laboratories. The organisation's decision-taking general assembly next May is expected to back these proposals, but until then travellers can easily receive the vaccine from most doctors, a WHO spokesman said. During the last two years, the number of governments requiring a smallpox card from foreigners has dwindled from more than 100. October last year, WHO announced officially the disease had been eliminated.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (R)—A Canadian Seaman says he scuttled a whale conservation ship in the Portuguese port of Leixoes earlier week because he didn't want to leave the vessel "in the hands of enemy." The British-registered Sea Shepherd had been imposed on Leixoes, the harbour of Oporto, since it was escorted in by Portuguese navy after ramming an alleged pirate whaler last. Skipper Paul Watson, 29, said he had bought the British-registered Sea Shepherd with funds provided jointly by Britain's Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the New York Fund for Animals for use in an anti-whaling campaign. He scuttled the converted trawler on New Year's Eve because "just in wartime, you don't leave that amount of money in the hands of enemy." Mr. Watson, speaking by telephone from Los Angeles, admitted that the Sea Shepherd had disabled the Cypriot-registered fishing vessel Sierra by ramming it twice off Leixoes. He said the Sierra was a pirate whaling vessel that had "killed everything it moved for ten years."

MOSCOW, Jan. 5 (R)—Alexander Sveshnikov, a senior figure in Soviet musical life for more than a quarter of a century, has died at age 89, it was reported today. Mr. Sveshnikov, a conductor, remembered for his work with choirs, headed the Moscow Conservatoire for 25 years and trained a several generations of Soviet musicians. An obituary published over the signatures of Pres. Leonid Brezhnev and Prime Minister Alexei Kosygin recalled he directed the USSR State Russian Choir for almost 40 years, founded the Moscow Choir School during World War Two, won the Kolomoia near Moscow in 1890, he was awarded the Soviet Union top honour, the title of Hero of Socialist Labour, as well as several other medals.
